Note:- In all of the above the stock enumerated is only a portion of the Lessee's band. The considerations mentioned are the result of striking a bargain after considering not only the amount of feed but protection against outsiders and the establishing of equities. There are no lands leased for grazing purposes near the Forest.
I have been diligent to try and find one case without success.
Mr. Trus Smith who has a permit for 60 cattle and 6 horses at 25¢ and 35¢ per head for season respectively, pays S. W. Johnson $1.00 for head for giving the stock a small amount of attention during the summer and for the privilege of grazing Johnson's hay land in the fall after the hay is cut and stacked.

The lands grazed by sheep included under caption "Other Lands" are unfenced and were leased by sheep owners to secure the use of springs or other water on them so that adjoining National Forest Ranges on which there is no water, might be grazed. These lands are leased for the period covered by the summer grazing season. (Approx 5/1 - 10/31).
The lands grazed by cattle included under caption "Other Lands" are all fenced, the being owned and constructed by the Lessors. Most of them are pastures lying from 5 to 20 miles distant from the Natl. Forest and at a lower elevation; and are leased for use as fall and winter pastures for only a portion of the year. There are two or three cases on this Forest coming under Regulation G-19 not included in the above report because the permit was issued in exchange for land which the permittee claims under homestead and of course would not be of any value in this comparative report. There are other things in connection with some of the leases that might be of value if it was possible to get all the data so that it could be seen at a glance. For instance, some of the sheepmen pay $100.00 for a quarter section to someone owning a ranch and expect to get the use of twice as much land as that for which they are paying. They estimate that the claim leased and the range controlled by having it leased will feed a band of sheep of 2400 from 15 to 20 days. This, if considered carefully, would bring the cost per head per year very high. I have been informed by several stockmen that the cheapest grazing they get is under the Forest Service system and they only lease other lands to get more range or to control range so as to run a number in excess of what the Forest Service will allow them.

There are no cases on this Forest that are covered by Regulation G-18, so therefore the two first cases on this report are ones covered by Regulation G-19. Under the next caption, "Other lands within Forest" are cases where lands have been leased from the State and the exclusive right of same has not been waived to the Forest Service. With the exception of the first two cases the information contained in the report was obtained from Mr. Hyrum Poole of Rexburg, Idaho, who has charge under the direction of the State Land Board of all State land within this Country; and for this reason I could consider the information perfectly reliable.
There are no other privately owned lands either within or adjacent to the Forest that are being leased exclusively for grazing purposes. There is, however, one case with which I am familiar, where Mr. Wm. E. Whittington of St. Anthony, Idaho is pasturing partly upon his own land and partly upon public lands a band of rams for which he receives 25¢ per head per month, which is equivalent to 75¢ per head for the same period as the grazing season for sheep on this Forest.
While discussing with Mr. Poole the question of leasing State land to stock grazers for grazing purposes, he informed me that he had no trouble what-ever in leasing lands that were suitable for grazing, for the prices set forth in the report. He further stated that practically all of the State land suited to grazing had been leased to stockmen for from 6¢ to 10¢ per acre, the location and carrying capacity of the land governing the fee charged for it.
The area of the Targhee Forest is 823,450 acres, of which approximately 70,000 acres is grazed by cattle, approximately 265,450 acres is not suited to any kind of grazing, being covered with heavy stands of jackpine, rocky ridges, cutting areas closed against grazing, etc; which leaves approximately 488,000 acres upon which sheep are grazed. The grazing allowance for sheep on this Forest this season is 122,000, or in other words, it requires four acres of land to furnish forage for one sheep during the grazing season; which, figured at the lowest rate charged by the State for lands of equivalent grazing value, would mean a charge of 24¢ per head instead of 5¢ as is now received by the Forest Service.

Since stockmen are willing and eager to lease all of the State land there is within the Forest suitable for grazing purposes at a minimum charge of 6¢ per acre, it appears to me that the grazing fee charged by the Forest Service for lands equally valuable is entirely too low.

There are no cases on or near the Manzana. The small Spanish Grants are used in a communal manner by the inhabitants of the respective Grants.

The figures given for the Trini Forest on the attached sheet show the rental values for the western part of northern New Mexico.

The report of Kirk & Doak appears to be so unusual as to be unworthy of belief. Acting Supervisor Balsley report that these people only claim to own 1200 head of cattle and that approximately 500 head graze on the La Sal National Forest and a number on the open range. It would therefore seem that the land had never been put to the actual test. The report on this land should be disregarded. E. M. Sherman District Forester.

The exclusive use in each case has been waived. The acreage per head of stock is, therefore, based on the Service estimate for the carrying capacity of the land.
The renting value of land in this section is, no doubt, higher than usual as practically all the summer range is either included within the Forest or privately owned. Flockmasters have been slow to reduce their flocks during the prosperous period for the wool industry prior to 1911.
It was assumed that you desired as many cases as possible where the facts required by the report could be obtained and we, therefore, included cases for 1910 inadvertently overlooking the fact that your letter called for cases of 1911. However, it is hoped that the additional information will be of value.
In order to avoid confusion, I have inserted on the margin of the report the year involved in each instance.

Note: - The Rock Springs Leasing Company is comprised of a number of sheepmen who have purchased from the Union Pacific large tracts of land in and around Langes and Rock Springs Wyoming. They in turn lease this land for winter grazing to the members of the company and occasionally outside parties are allowed the privilege of grazing upon the lands after payment of rental charge. This is based on a per head or tons basis. In this report we show Timothy Kinney as the only lessee since by using him we cover the entire tract as all charges on this privilege are uniform.
